

Maya Perry

Maya Perry (b. 1994, New York, NY) is a multidisciplinary artist and a graduate of the Yale University MFA program in Painting/Printmaking. She spent her formative years performing experimental music both collaboratively and as a solo artist. Her animated films have been screened at international festivals, including Tricky Women in Vienna and Lago Film Fest in Italy. Perry has participated in residencies such as Kinosaito in Verplanck, New York, and was a fellow at the Center for Collaborative Arts and Media (CCAM) in New Haven, Connecticut. Her work has been exhibited at venues including Perrotin Gallery in New York and The Next Contemporary in Toronto, Canada. She currently lives and works in New York City.